Connecting with YWAM

February and March were filled with events with YWAM, learning, teaching, serving, connecting, worshipping...

I was involved in the Masters group with YWAM's University in Switzerland. The first worship time I had with the group, I cried so hard. It was like my heart was grieving from missing life in YWAM and feeling joy for being back in fellowship with fellow missionaries and close friends. I spent two weeks with this group and re-connected with my project on Discipleship and Christian Formation.

I was recently in Recife, 4 hours from my hometown here in Northeast Brazil. I was teaching there for a week to 80 staff plus students from two schools. What a rich time it was! I met amazing people who are being trained as missionaries to go to Africa, Asia and nations. Some of them come out of the streets as street kids and had been restored in the YWAM ministry. Today they have families and ministries and are being sent out to nations as missionaries. Amazing to see the fruit of this ministry in front of my eyes.

I am hoping to go to Switzerland for the Masters group again end of May and then on to Sweden for a couple months to re-connect with YWAM and a couple churches there. I am also longing to see my neighbors and friends.

Thank you for your prayers and support.

Thank you for praying:

1. Mom's health

She was in the hospital while I was in Switzerland but now is doing good again. She often feels a lot of pain in her legs, ankles and hips.

2. House is paid off!

We were able to sell mom's small apartments and pay off the new house.

Still need to sell Mom's old home.

3. For my time in Natal

I feel like it is a choice everyday to be in Brazil. I often struggle with how the country is so corrupt, bureaucratic and violent. So many people without jobs and suffering.

Brazil has 19 of the most violent 50 cities in the world. Mine is number 1 in Brazil.

Please pray for Brazil!
